REGINA, August 22.

The school bill was considered in committee nearly all week. It provided that English must be the language of all schools, but a primary course may be taught in French.

The Council of Public Instruction will consist of the executive committee assisted by two Protestants and two Catholics who have no votes. The Council of Public Instruction will select text books and define the course of instruction. Religious exercises are permitted half an hour each day as directed by trustees.

William Alfred, Belleville, Ont., has the contract for government buildings at Edmonton.

LOCAL.

JOE LAROSE is city scavenger.

SEVERAL fields of wheat are being cut now.

THE English church is going to have a picnic on Wednesday at Groat's.

F. C. GILCHRIST, inspector of Northwest fisheries, arrived by Thursday's train.

— CLAXTON, fruitier, Calgary, took a good many pails of raspberries back with him.

THE sidewalks are getting along famously. They are expected to be finished this week.

THE Edmonton Cartage company have changed their office to Fitzgerald and Lucas' office.

JAMES MACDONALD left by Friday's train for Winnipeg, and expects to be away for 10 days.

A METHODIST church is going to be built shortly that will cost $4,500. W. S. Edmonton architect.

A. H. MARTIN, who got his building burned in the recent fire has got his new building under way again.

A. EDGE, of Edge & Sewell, painters, Innisfail, is in town. He proposes opening a branch of his business here shortly.

JOE PANNERMAN left here by Friday's train, taking with him seven pails of raspberries, which he picked while here.

GEORGE P. SANDERSON is fixing a hammer for the fire bell so that the ringing for practice and a fire will be very different.

A MOST enjoyable picnic was held at Fairhaven on Saturday, boating and canoeing on the river were the principle amusements.

THE contract for the Government buildings at Edmonton have been let at last. William Alfred, Belleville, Ont., is the contractor.

THE fire bell rings every Monday evening at 7:30 p.m., for practice when the weather permits, so no one need be alarmed when they hear it at that time.

A LARGE number of people have left for Saddle lake to attend the wedding of Miss Vesta Ross and Sidney S. Taylor, which takes place on Wednesday, 24th inst.

A CONCERT will be held in McLeod's Hall this evening in aid of the Edmonton hospital. The Fax company will take part in it with the kind permission of Mr. Moore.

HENDERSON'S Manitoba and Northwest Territory Gazetteer has just arrived in town and gives a good deal of information. It can be seen at Mr. Hemick & Coy's office.

PETER PRUDER arrived last week from Lac la Bine with a load of furs. Part was purchased by the Hudson's Bay Company for $500, and part by W. D. Stennett, for $520.

CALGARY quarantine was broken up on Wednesday, the 1st. Mr. Halliday and mother-in-law have gone back to Calgary, and no longer fear small pox is apprehended.

THE funeral of the late Robert Strachan took place on Friday, and was very largely attended. Service was conducted by Rev. D. G. McQueen at the Presbyterian church on the way to the Edmonton cemetery.

A CALGARY deputation interviewed members of the assembly and urged the payment of $2,407 spent in crushing out small-pox. It is likely a portion of the amount may be paid.

THE Fax Concert Company took a most enjoyable drive yesterday accompanied by Mr. Aldwell, of the Imperial Bank, to Fort Saskatchewan, returning by way of Clover Bar.

A QUARTER mile horse race was run on the straight track, on Thursday last, between D. Noyes' "Roan" and a bay horse belonging to a Suteaux Indian. The "Roan" won by a neck after jolting the bay right off the track. The Indian offered to run his horse again, but Noyes backed out.

THOSE ditches at the sides of the graded roads and streets are very likely to be the cause of some serious accident some day. Last night as a party was coming home, along one of the old trails, suddenly found themselves dumped into a ditch, which they could not see in the dark, but no one was seriously injured. The town ought really to put on culverts where those old trails cross the graded streets, or else see that those trails are closed up. This would not be so expensive as paying for some broken bones.

IT is a strange that most towns in Alberta are protected by the Northwest mounted police, but Edmonton citizens got notice a short time ago that the police would guard their town no longer. Now this is a time seemingly that Edmonton requires more protection than any other town, perhaps, in Canada. The town council have written several times to Comptroller White and Commissioner Herchmer and all they received in reply was the acknowledgement of the letters. The town council will probably meet soon to arrange that some steps be taken to place this matter in front of the government.

THE Fax company did not leave on Friday as intended, but will give us the benefit of their concerts for other two nights. To-night a concert will be given for the benefit of the Edmonton hospital by the Fax company and some local talent. On Tuesday night the Fax company will perform as usual. Mr. Fax is a very clever singer in character, he imitates an Irishman to perfection, and is encored two or three times after every song. Among the favorite pieces are: "The Irish Jaunting Car," and "The Bowery Grenadiers." Mr. Cameron is the right man in the right place. He keeps the audience in raps of laughter with his songs, recitations and stories, is hard to beat. "When you come to think of it." Miss Kleisser is a beautiful soprano singer; she simply charms her audience and is encored repeatedly. Great praise is due to Miss Martin, pianist, who has perhaps the hardest work of the evening to perform and does it thoroughly as well as any.

MACLEOD MASS MEETING.

All citizens decide to stay in the old town. The name of the Calgary and Edmonton new town site is likely to hoodwink the public.

At a meeting of citizens held here, on Saturday, the 13th inst., it was decided to stay by the old town, to refuse to buy lots in the new town site, and to direct all the business in our power towards our own town and those doing business in it. The action of the Calgary & Edmonton railway company, calling their new townsite "Macleod," strongly condemned, as likely to deceive the outside public into the idea that they were buying lots in the old established town of Fort Macleod, or as it is generally known "Macleod." Much amusement was occasioned by the fact that the Calgary & Edmonton railway company have named all their streets after Macleod people, such as "Campbell street," "Grady street," "Ryan street," "Miller avenue," etc., we suppose with the idea that this would induce us to pay them $175 for a lot with the honor of having a street in the prairie named after us thrown in. The fact that the Canadian Pacific railway have no interest whatever in the townsite was made known.

Macleod, August 14th, 1892.

A Chinese leper was discovered recently in a Mongolian laundry in San Francisco, where he had been working for four years, until a few weeks ago, when the disease made such progress he could not stand on his legs. He was found on a large pile of soiled clothing belonging to patrons of the establishment, which was awaiting the cleansing process. The victim presented a shocking spectacle. One glance sufficed to convince the inspectors that the Mongolian was a leper in the advanced stages. The loathsome sores were upon his face, and when he arose to a sitting posture to greet his listeners, he exposed an ankle that was one mass of rottenness. The ravages of the disease had been concentrated on this limb, and the running sores were sickening to behold. He calmly admitted he had been a leper for four years, but he said he had to live, so he washed and ironed clothes in a large laundry, whose patrons are all white people. He was removed to the pesthouse, where he cannot live long.

Calgary Herald, August 17th. The Winnipeg Free Press publishes a column editorial denouncing Calgary people for their treatment of the Chinese and leaving the impression that Chinese would be received with open arms in Winnipeg. A day or two later it published a Calgary telegram stating that the Chinamen were leaving for Winnipeg, giving it the heading, "We Don't Want Them." A similar telegram in the Winnipeg Tribune is headed "We do not Wish to Invite Them."—As ever, it is distance that lends enchantment to the view.

The single scull race between Jake Gaudaur and Stephenson, the Australian, rowed recently at Orillia, was witnessed by 8,000 people. Gaudaur won by 15 boat lengths. Time, 20 minutes, and 3 seconds.

DELEGATES' LETTER.

The following is the report made by the Michigan delegates who recently visited Edmonton district:

On Monday, August the 2nd, we took the Edmonton and Calgary railroad for Edmonton, a distance of 192 miles in northerly direction. We found the appearance of the country improve as we travelled north; 50 miles from Calgary all the growth commenced to be very luxuriant, the grass being especially good. We found that many settlers were already in the country, and every station filled with anxious land hunters. At Edmonton and points south and east of it settlers can procure at the stores all requirements at a fair price. There are two coal mines at Edmonton. Coal is sold at $2.40 or $2.75 per ton delivered. Gold is being procured by many placer miners on the bars of the North Saskatchewan. We were informed that each man averaged from $2 to $3 per day. They are testing for oil west of Edmonton, with fair prospect of success. The game through the country is very plentiful. We saw a great many flocks of prairie chickens, ducks and geese, and in our opinion it is the sportsman's paradise. The shooting season for prairie chicken commences on September 1st and ducks, geese, etc., on August 15th. It would be difficult to conceive more favorable conditions for settlement than are to be met with in the country we traversed. Good soil, water, timber, hay, coal easily and cheaply mined on the Saskatchewan river. It seems to crop out everywhere. The opinion of delegates as regards the opportunities of the Northwest for settlement would be this: That whilst the entire country seems well adapted for stock raising, the district around Edmonton, so far as we saw, was beyond our expectation suitable for mixed farming. Wheat was especially good, also oats and barley, and as eastern farmers we would say of the timothy grass, it was as fine as can be produced in any country and we believe it can be raised with profit to the farmer as the country becomes more improved by settlers, from our observation. In going east about thirty-six or forty miles vegetation was growing nicely and looking well; in our opinion it is to be the future country in the Northwest. We can say from evidence within our knowledge that any man who will endeavor to make a home can do so in this district. It certainly has the best depth of soil. In this country hay is abundant and all kinds of the small wild fruits such as strawberries, gooseberries, wild currants and wild blackberries abound.

The Edmonton district surpassed our expectations, we found a country that is well adapted for mixed farming, with an inexhaustible black loamy soil, well watered and well timbered. The conditions in that respect would compare favorably to the state of Illinois; wheat, oats, barley and hay will grow in abundance. We saw timothy and potatoes as good as ever we saw in the east, and we see no reason why any person in the east who is burdened with taxes and interest should not go at once and make a home in the beautiful Northwest if he can. There he has a good healthy climate, no taxes to speak of, good land, no mortgages, no interest, and where with a little energy and perseverance he could make himself a comfortable and happy home.

The soil is from one and one-half to three feet deep, a black loam similar to the soil of our Michigan river flats only heavier, and rests upon a clay subsoil which is in itself most black and rich. The climate is mild, many farmers telling us that horses get a good living running out all winter, and that last season there was very little or no sleighing there being so little snow. It was the same the winter before and we believe is generally so. The crops of wheat were fine and stand very even about as high as the fence tops, about four and a half to five feet, and indicating a yield of 25 to 30 bushels per acre. They will be ready to harvest about August 20th. Oats were heavy and good; we would think them good for 60 to 70 bushels and we were told of exceptional yields of 100 bushels per acre. Barley, the largest we ever saw, and much larger and more plentiful than is ever raised in any part of Michigan. Potatoes and a variety of garden vegetables are grown most successfully, there being no potatoe bugs, cabbage worms or any vegetable or grain pest.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Regina, August 13.

SATURDAY.

Haultain laid on the table the correspondence between the executive committee and the Dominion government regarding the financial arrangements with the Territories. The order-in-council vesting in the assembly control of $193,200 of money voted by parliament for expenses of government in the Northwest was also laid before the members. Hitherto this vote has been separated at Ottawa into its several items, so that an amount appropriated to a certain purpose must be used for that purpose or not at all. Consequently there was no inducement towards economy on the part of the Northwest government. Now every part of the $193,200 is expended as the assembly may see fit and there is consequently the most direct inducement to save in the less necessary for the more necessary objects.

Mowat moved the second reading of the bill respecting dentistry. The principal changes were to permit dentists to take apprentices and to have them examined for certificates to practice after a two and a-half years course.

Betts objected that there were other important features in the bill tending unduly outside dental talent from the Territories. If permitted to move against these features of the bill in committee of the whole he would not oppose the second reading, which was carried.

The license amendments were considered in committee of the whole.

Campbell moved that the license be reduced to $150. Motion lost.

Reaman moved that a deposit of only $100 be asked from persons desiring a vote taken under the local option clauses, instead of $200. Carried.

Haultain's amendment providing that in no case shall liquor be sold to a person under 18 years of age was agreed to.

Haultain moved that no wholesale license be granted outside town municipalities or unincorporated towns.

Cayley saw no reason why they should not be granted these as well as hotels.

Haultain said there was a vast difference between those demanded of a wholesale house and of a hotel. The hotel might be a necessity, where the wholesale house would only be a nuisance. It was desirable to restrict on the responsibility of the house the establishment of wholesale houses where they were not needed.

Betts and Cayley opposed, and Mitchell and Oliver supported the motion, which was lost after a hot debate.

All amendments before the committee were disposed of before it rose to sit again Monday.

REGINA, AUGUST 15TH.

MONDAY EVENING.

Mowat moved the second reading of the school bill, and alluded to its leading features at length. The change from irresponsible control by the board of education to irresponsible by the executive setting as a council of public instruction was prompted by the desire to reduce expenses and increase efficiency. It was not intended to interfere with separate school rights. The provision against the employment of clergymen was rendered necessary by the influence exercised by clergymen over their people in respect of religious matters, aside from education. The provision to make the teaching of English compulsory was rendered necessary on account of the large influx of foreigners. An exception was made in favor of teaching a primary course in French, as the French were fellow Canadians. Taxation was proposed to be placed on land alone, and the only land to be exempt was public cemeteries to the extent of 25 acres.

Prince saw no good object to be served by doing away with the board of education. It would not save expense, and to replace the trained educationalists of the board of education by the members of the executive, who were not trained in such matters, would not increase efficiency. This bill simply destroyed separate schools. Separate schools might be lost when the Territories were organized into provinces, but that time was yet distant. In the meantime why not deal liberally with the minority, the control of their own schools as contemplated by the law. There was a large influx of people to these Territories, and the best people who were coming were our own people from Ontario and Quebec. Would a step calculated to curtail the privileges and hurt the feelings of the people of one of these provinces be a direct slap at immigration to the Territories? As to language French people were not foreigners. They were the first Canadians, they loved their language and would teach it to their children, but were not the less loyal citizens and true Canadians as had been proved on many a battle field. The clause prohibiting clergymen from acting in certain capacity was an insult and outrage. That we were here to-day was due to the efforts of missionaries and clergymen. They were men peculiarly fitted to assist in management of school matters. He moved, seconded by Clinkskill, that all the words in the bill after "That" be struck out, and that the following be substituted: "The provisions of this bill regarding the council of public instruction are not such as to commend themselves to this house."

Betts could not agree with the last speaker that there was nothing good in the bill. There was much good in it, but some of its features were objectionable. He had intended not to oppose the second reading, reserving the right of discussion and amendment in committee, but owing to the remarks of the mover he would feel compelled to oppose the second reading.

Clinkskill as seconder of the amendment was opposed to the second reading of the bill, was not an amendment and consolidation as the title stated, but a repeal and substitution. It introduced an entirely new school system. As the bill empowered the executive to call in advice from any source, the abolition of the board of education would result in an increase of expense, not a diminution. While it would be an advantage to have the control of schools brought more directly under the control of the assembly, the proposed bill did not do that. The head of educational affairs would be the superintendent who would be as irresponsible as the present board of education, and besides could not represent the interests of the religious community. The spirit of the bill was an attack on the rights of that minority. In the section providing for the establishment of separate schools, the wording of the Northwest Act was changed to affect such schools prejudicially. A public school could be erected on petition of three ratepayers, while ten were required to sign for a separate school. The method of control for separate schools should be satisfactory to the minority. This question was full of danger to public men. Dalton McCarthy had made a failure of his life by attacking it. Great trouble had occurred in Manitoba and the end was not yet. In our own assembly if the leader of the house was in a critical position at the present moment it would be on account of having "monkeyed with the band wagon."

Davidson did not approve of all the provisions of the bill, but if the fullest liberty of amendment were allowed in committee of the whole he would support the second reading.

Oliver supported the second reading. It was a fair business proposition that the more closely the affairs of the assembly were brought under its control the more economically and efficiently they could be administered. This was the tendency of the proposed bill. Its tendency was to adopt the principles and methods under which the Ontario school system had come to be acknowledged the best in the world, judged by its results. It had been charged that this attempt to increase the efficiency of our system was an attack upon separate schools. He thought that the provision of the Northwest Act, regarding separate schools, was a wise provision, as it enabled a religious minority to protect itself in educational matters from a possibly intolerant majority. But he did not think it was wise on the part of the would-be champions of separate schools to hold that purely defensive provision as a bar to educational advancement of the country at large, that was not the intention of the provision, and by turning what was simply a defensive into a distinctly aggressive measure, counter aggressive would be provoked, as it need not be, and under other circumstances would not be. The right of Roman Catholics as well as Protestants was to the best opportunities of education the state could give them. In so far as this bill tended in this direction, it was entitled to the united support of both. To vote against the bill was to vote against the educational advancement of the country—to vote that we should stand still, which really means that we should go back.

Dil seconded the second reading and replied to the member for St. Albert. As long as the provision regarding separate schools remained in the Northwest Act he would feel bound to respect it, but he would not see that the proposed council of public instruction was any infringement upon the provisions of that Act any more than the board of education. He must resent the imputation upon the executive that it would not act fairly. One of the members represented a Roman Catholic constituency, surely he would deal fairly by his constituents and their co-religionists. If our people were going to the States they were going to a country where separate schools were unknown and the French language was not allowed to be taught. The argument that we would draw them here by providing the condition from which they seemed desirous of escaping did not seem good. The question might be dangerous to public men, but some public men could be compensated for apparent failure by the knowledge that they had done their duty, and were held in high honor for having done it.

Cayley would be compelled to vote against the second reading on account of the provisions regarding the council of public instruction. As long as separate schools were admitted he did not believe in faltering away their rights. He criticized at length many details of the bill and pointed out that the provision regarding a uniform system of text books was an attack upon Catholic sights. He approved of many points in the bill and considered that the introducer had done a great deal of valuable work on it, but he would be compelled to support the amendment.

Haultain could not support all the provisions of the bill, but thought on the whole its tendency was good and would vote for the second reading if full freedom to amend were allowed in committee. He strongly objected to the provision concerning a uniform system of text books. This would be an infringement on a constitutional right and besides would not be fair. He objected to the provisions regarding clergymen. He would go a long way with the bill as to the teaching of English only, but the subject should be handled delicately and with due regard to circumstances. He favored the single tax idea as an experiment, and feel like allowing school districts to adopt that principle if they wished. He went at length into the working of the proposed council of public instruction and compared it with similar bodies elsewhere. The executive were no trained educationalists neither were they trained in engineering municipal law and many other matters with which they had to deal. The point was that they were responsible to the house for what was done, whether well or ill, and it should be so in education. The board of education itself was not a trained body of educationalists at first. The complaints made against the recent promotion examinations were really against the board of education, which framed the regulations and for which the executive could not fairly be held responsible.

The question on the amendment was then put:

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

REGINA, August 16th

TUESDAY.

Davidson introduced amendments to the municipal ordinance.

Cayley's bill to incorporate the Bishop of Saskatchewan was read a second time.

Haultain's bill respecting marriages was read a second time. The bill does away with marriage commissioners and compels the publication of banns if banns are used for two weeks.

The report of the immigration committee in favor of continuing the present arrangement for advertising the Territories in the Western World at $700 a year for two pages a month was carried.

The report of the special committee on land titles offices was adopted. It is as follows:

The special committee appointed to consider the question of drafting a memorial to the Dominion government on Land Title Offices in the Territories, reports the following resolution:

That the attention of the legislative assembly of the Territories has been called to the fact that a bill, introduced into parliament last session, proposed to materially modify the principles upon which the registration of land titles in the Northwest has principally been found adapted to the requirements of the country, to a centralized one, which, in the opinion of the assembly, would not be so adapted:

That, in considering the matter the assembly is agreed that the time has come when control of the registration of land titles may safely be vested in the Territorial government under whose management it is judged that the system without disturbing the present incumbents of office or their emoluments, could be materially cheapened both in cost of management and in the fees chargeable to the public;

That, in legislating upon property and civil rights, which is within the competence of the assembly, ordinances have been passed in regard —amongst other things—to Mechanics' Liens, Expropriation of Land and Tax (and other official) sales, and the question must frequently arise of how far such ordinances are in harmony with the Territories Real Property Act, or can be enforced with due reference thereto;

That it is an anomaly that with the other powers of legislation now possessed by the assembly the power of legislating upon the registration of Land Titles should be wanting.

A. S. CAYLEY, Chairman.

School grants were considered in committee and stood for further consideration to-morrow.

The school bill was considered in committee and unimportant amendments made.

Rev. Dr. Robertson superintendent of Presbyterian Missions, says: "My idea is that there is no better race among which to do evangelical work than the Anglo-Saxon. We have in the past been committing the mistake of looking to the ends of the earth and neglecting such places as London, Eng.; New York, Chicago and San Francisco. Some people have the theory that if the Chinese and Japanese do not get to know fully of the Lord Jesus; they will perish. That is not my theory. I have travelled a good deal through this country at night, and have, at times, been lost. I have succeeded in getting home by starlight. Moonlight is better than that, but for the traveller sunlight is the best. Oh no sir, I do not think they will perish, if they get even starlight, and I am convinced that we should cultivate closely every home field."

The crop prospects in Ontario are reported not so good as they were a week or two ago. Since the wheat has been coming into the millers' hands it is found that the quality is not as good as was anticipated. Some new white was sold up north at 74 cents, which is considerably below what it opened last year. The oat crop is not likely to be as large as last year, and it is now said that the barley acreage is smaller. The reports received from Manitoba say that the weather there is favorable for growing crops and the prospects are promising.

The B. C. Gazette contains the following, which is self explanatory: "Notice is hereby given that in addition to the bounty of $5 per head for every wolf or panther killed in a settled district in this Province, the sum of $2.50 will be paid for every coyote killed in a settled district, on the certificate of a Justice of the Peace that such animal was killed in a settlement, and that the head was produced to and destroyed by him."

So many cases of small pox have appeared in New York during the past three weeks that the health authorities fear that there may be a general out break of the disease during the coming fall unless energetic measures are taken. The infected districts have been sub-divided into 20 sub-districts and a sanitary inspector has been assigned to each of the latter.

A few speeches were made after dinner and several of the visitors expressed themselves as very much surprised to see Edmonton such a large place. They seemed to think that the train stopping on the south side might do a little harm to us but did not think we need fear much from the south side, as nothing, or at least very little was being done there. They expressed themselves as delighted with the country as far as they had seen it, and would in future use their influence for Edmonton.

S. R. Reid, city editor of the Auburn Gazette, Maine, who has been west with the delegates of the Pine Tree State, has returned to the city delighted with the Canadian Northwest.
